Dief Faces Certain Defeat

Crisis at a Glance

- New Democratic Party caucus decides to support Social Credit non-confidence motion tonight, thus assuring defeat of Diefenbaker administration by combined opposition.
- Reports sweep Ottawa of revolt by group of cabinet ministers seeking Diefenbaker's resignation so that government can be saved.
- These reports suggest Finance Minister George Nowlan would become prime minister temporarily.
- Procedure would be that if Diefenbaker quits Social Credit would withdraw non-confidence motion and keep Tory government in power under new prime minister for a further period.
- As Commons session began, no action had been taken by Diefenbaker.

Rusk Cleared Of Bungling

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Senate subcommittee has cleared State Secretary Rusk of charges of bungling by his department's criticism of Canadian nuclear policy and the chairman has called on Prime Minister Diefenbaker to clarify Canada's position.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, said Diefenbaker's position appears to require clarification in view of findings by the U.S. government that nuclear weapons are essential for the defence of North America and the NATO alliance.

Aiken headed a 90-minute secret hearing by his foreign relations subcommittee Monday. He told reporters later the United States doesn't want to meddle in Canadian political affairs but that Diefenbaker appeared to have provoked the department's public reaction by disclosing confidential information in the Canadian Parliament Jan. 25.

TALKS INCONCLUSIVE

At that time the prime minister stated that the two governments were engaged "forcefully" in negotiating for Canadian acquisition of U.S. nuclear warheads. The state department denied this Jan. 30, saying the negotiations had been confidential, exploratory and inconclusive and that the Diefenbaker government hadn't contributed effectively to North American defence.

Aiken said he still is at a loss to know why the state department resorted to a public statement to make this view known, instead of employing confidential channels. But Rusk, who testified before the subcommittee, took full responsibility for the method employed, Aiken said.

"I am sure the secretary of state meant no offence to Canada. The secretary made clear in his release last Friday that while he regrets the tone of the statement—if this gave offence to some Canadians—this did not alter the position of the U.S. regarding nuclear weapons."

Aiken, who had accused the department of clumsiness before the hearing opened, said later he no longer feels the department was clumsy though he still is not entirely satisfied with the manner in which the public statement was handled.

Now standings in the Senate are: Liberals, 59; Progressive Conservatives, 36; Independent, 2; Independent-Liberals, 1; vacant, 4. Total, 102.

Students Protest

BERLIN (Reuters)—About 1,000 West Berlin students paraded down the famous Kurfuerstendamm Avenue here today demonstrating against the collapse of the Brussels negotiations on British entry into the European Common Market.

"Minds, nevertheless," Mr. Barrett intoned, "are not conquered by arms, but by love and generosity."

I'm vague as to the reference, but approve this nod to the humanities. I rather approve young Mr. Barrett, too, with his butch haircut and ingenuous smile. He spoke well and to the point on education in B.C., and while he entertains the usual fallacies about the modus operandi of the press, he was kinder to us than most.

Speaking of reportage, various members have suggested in a tentative sort of way that we should have a provincial Hansard. I'm not too sure this would work to their advantage. For one thing, with Hansard to hand like conscience made

Cabinet Revolt Reported

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, faced with a reported cabinet revolt against his leadership, today apparently decided to let his Conservative government sink in a showdown Commons vote on the nuclear arms issue.

Mr. Diefenbaker charged into the Commons debate on non-confidence in the government today.

He branded the non-confidence motion introduced Monday night by opposition leader Pearson as "general, widespread and obviously diffuse, and said Mr. Pearson is afraid to face the question of nuclear arms for Canadian forces.

Mr. Diefenbaker also accused U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk of "a further intrusion" into Canadian affairs.

Referring to Rusk's statement last week that a state department press release criticizing Canadian indecision on nuclear arms, although regrettable, was factually correct, Diefenbaker charged:

"This statement constitutes a further intrusion. Without any reservations . . . this subsequent statement by the secretary of state added to the seriousness of the earlier one."

Mr. Diefenbaker pledged that if his government is sustained in office it will present 1963-64 spending estimates to the Commons within a week and a budget before the end of February.

With all three opposition parties having declared their intention to vote against the administration, its defeat was a virtual certainty. This would force the prime minister to dissolve parliament for a new general election.

HOUSE TENSE

A group of dissident cabinet ministers, fearful of an election on the U.S.-triggered nuclear fence issue, tried to force Diefenbaker's immediate resignation.

This move was brought up in the tense House in questioning by Mr. Pearson.

The Liberal leader asked Diefenbaker point-blank if any changes in the Conservative ministry were in the offing.

"I don't know what the current reports are from the propaganda factory," the prime minister snapped.

Did the prime minister consider such news reports to be Liberal propaganda? Pearson inquired.

"I consider them Liberally inspired," was the answer.

Diefenbaker, who spent the morning closeted in his residence while reports of the cabinet revolt shook Parliament Hill, received a rousing ovation from the Conservative benches as he entered the House shortly after 2:30 p.m., EST. All the cabinet ministers on hand joined in.

ON 'HEALTH' GROUNDS

The brief Commons drama unfolded following word from authoritative sources that a group of cabinet ministers wanted Diefenbaker to resign ostensibly on "health" grounds, before the showdown vote.

The sources said Finance Minister George Nowlan would become prime minister in any reconstituted Conservative government.

They also indicated that Diefenbaker would be offered

HONOLULU—If Hawaiian officials can figure out how to place a lei on Queen Elizabeth without common hands contacting the royal personage they may avert a literally touchy problem in international protocol.

The deadline for solution is March 27, when the Queen is to pay a return visit to the islands on her way back from the South Pacific Commonwealth nations.

When the Queen passed through Feb. 1, she wanted a lei—the strand of flowers traditionally draped by attractive girls around the necks of visitors to Hawaii.

Island officials had consulted with British Consul Wilfred Hindle and the British Embassy and decided not to present a lei because of British tradition forbidding commoners from touching royalty.

At the last minute the Queen was handed an unofficial lei—but the island government wants to avoid a similar last-minute fiasco when she returns—and presumably may want an official lei.

BURLINGTON, Ont.—An excited father-to-be tangled his tongue and almost deprived the new arrival of medical assistance.

Police said the man called and said:

"This is Mr. Ashley. I live at 790 Cumberland Avenue and my wife is having a baby but I cannot get my car started. Could you send a cruiser?"

A police car raced to that given address, but the officers found no Mr. Ashley.

Four minutes later came a second call: "This is Mr. Cumberland at 790 Ashley Avenue. Where's that cruiser?"

With the cruiser on the right track, the race with the stork was won.

LONDON—A court in Sverdlovsk has sentenced two restaurant men to be shot for skimping on fat in the frying of meat patties and pocketing money saved.

Moscow radio said today the two men were the director of the governing body of a restaurant at Sverdlovsk, 850 miles east of Moscow, and the manager.

It said the director invented an automatic fryer which cut the amount of fat needed for each patty below the amount specified in the regulations.

The saving was shared out among the director and 55 accomplices, the radio said. The inventor pocketed 400 rubles a month.

Other accomplices received prison sentences ranging up to 15 years.

TEHRAN, Iran.—When the second royal baby is born, 11,750 prisoners will receive amnesty, the government has announced. Empress Farrah expects her second child in March.

ROME—Almost 100 butchers went on trial here Monday on charges of using powders to improve the color and appearance of meat they sold.

SAN PEDRO, Calif.—A four-word message Monday cost the local Western Union office $287. It said: "This is a holdup."

LONDON—The official handbook of Britain for 1963 reported today that one class of citizen has "less leisure time, and considerably fewer periods of continuous leisure of over one hour, than other persons" in the country.

It was speaking of housewives.

Titan Rocket Fuel Suspected Poison

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—The mighty Titan II rocket, soon to be added to the U.S. military missile and manned space flight programs, is a "Pandora's box" that could loose poisons at launching sites in event of mishap, an air force scientist said Monday.

SORED BACKING

High-placed informants said the 30-man Social Credit group, whose votes could save the tottering administration, had offered to swing its support behind the government if Diefenbaker was removed without further delay.

The sources said this proposal was accepted by at least six cabinet ministers.

This group, along with two other members, met for 90 minutes this morning in Trade Minister George Hees' Parliament Hill office.

They emerged shortly after noon and, after admitting they were seeking a way to avoid defeat in the Commons, cautiously denied they wanted Diefenbaker's resignation.

Asked if the cabinet was still united behind the prime minister, Hees replied: "Certainly it is."

for the House to take up consideration of departmental estimates.

Passage of that motion could sustain the government in power, but defeat of it would confirm the government's defeat in the Commons.

The normal course in such a circumstance is for the government to ask the Commons for an adjournment while the cabinet considers its course.

It can either submit its resignation to the Governor-General and ask him to call on one of the other party leaders to try to form a government or—more likely—ask the Governor-General to dissolve the 25th Parliament and call a new general election.

The Diefenbaker government would then remain in office during the election campaign.

Research President

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Dr. Bristow Guy Ballard, 60, as president of the National Research Council was announced in the Commons Monday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Mr. Ballard has been scientific vice-president of NRC since 1954.

Accompanying Rusk to the hearing was George McGhee, undersecretary of state for political affairs, and Delmar Carlson, who heads the department's Canadian section.

Rusk declined to comment on the outcome of the investigation. Asked whether he would comment on the Harkness resignation, he replied "I hope business and inconveniences 500,000 daily riders."

Huge Mental Aid Program by JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today urged "bold new" programs he said would eventually free hundreds of thousands of mental patients from U.S. hospital beds and lighten the tragic toll of mental retardation.

The cost for the first year would be $31,350,000, but it might cost many millions more when the program accelerates.

His proposals were in a special message to Congress on mental health—the first such message sent to Capitol Hill by a president.

Kennedy asked for an across-the-board legislative program for:

New community mental health centres, the centerpiece for bringing the mentally ill back to a useful life, and preventing new cases earlier;

More pre-natal care for mothers-to-be to help ensure their infants will not be doomed to mental retardation;

More child health care to detect and treat threatened cases earlier;

More trained personnel and facilities for training and rehabilitation of the mentally ill and retarded;

More research centres to get at the causes and, hopefully, to cure;

PLANS FOUR BILLS

Specifically, the president intends to introduce four new bills, one of them not to be fully implemented until the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1964.

That bill would encourage state or local governments or admiral Sergei Gorshkov, commander-in-chief of the navy, said the launches were in training exercises last year.

Western experts have expressed belief the Soviet Union's new atomic submarine fleet was equipped with underwater launching devices, but Gorshkov's announcement was the first direct Moscow statement.

Writing in the army newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star), the admiral said that a "radical re-equipment" has provided the Soviet navy with new submarines and surface vessels armed with missiles capable of striking anywhere in the world.

Gorshkov said highly placed Pentagon leaders had expressed doubts until lately that the Soviet Union had atomic-powered submarines able to fire rockets while submerged.

The hopes of the transoceanic strategists that their lines of communication, let alone their coastal areas, will be beyond the reach of our navy, have proved utterly groundless," wrote Gorshkov.

"There are no invulnerable spots on the continent, just as there is no place in the world oceans where the enemy ships would be safe from the threat of destruction during hostilities."

The Russians are known to have at least 12 nuclear submarines in combat readiness and the admiral indicated the rockets were fired from these craft while submerged.

Harding Triggers Power Cost Ruckus

BY FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

First burst of temper in this year's legislature came in the last few minutes of Monday night's sitting — a clash between the opposition's chief power spokesman and a cabinet trio.

The issue that caused it: B.C.'s most intricate power development costs.

It was raised by Randolph Harding, New Democratic Party member for Kaslo-Slocan.

He accused Water Resources Minister Ray Williston of giving the House wrong figures for the cost of Peace River power.

Mr. Williston sputtered in indignation.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said it was "a disgrace."

Premier Bennett charged Mr. Harding had "spoiled the session," and was making the House sit beyond the 10:30 p.m. cutoff he had sought.

"I'm not going to be bulldozed by any member of the cabinet," roared back Mr. Harding.

It was the first real outburst and the first hint of real bad feeling in this year's session, which started Jan. 24.

Mr. Harding contended that the first Peace River power to be delivered to Vancouver would cost 10.1 per kilowatt hour. He repudiated a claim at last year's session by Mr. Williston that the cost would be 5 to 6 mills.

(Government spokesmen since then have said Peace power will only cost 3.75 mills.)

"You're trying to kill the north," shouted the premier.

"I defy you to arrive at different figures," replied Mr. Harding.

"Nobody ever arrived at them," Mr. Williston protested.

"Why don't you give us the facts and figures?" asked Mr. Harding. "You've been trying to damn the Columbia River in the eyes of the people."

Mr. Harding promised to deal more fully with the Columbia at a later date. He said he has received "a very interesting document" from General A. G. L. McNaughton, main man of the present Columbia development plans, which would show "the disaster" of the treaty with the U.S.

Mr. Harding also accused the government of "shabby" vote-getting tactics in the federal election campaign by announcing a tender call for initial Columbia works — clearing of the Duncan Lake dam site — and never going ahead with a start.

South Africa Extends Bans on Communists?

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — The South African government during the weekend imposed further bans under the Suppression of Communism Act on two white persons, one colored (mixed race) and a Negro.

Johannesburg lawyer Joe Slovo and his wife, Ruth, both officially labelled as Communists, were forbidden to communicate with any other banned persons except each other for five years.

Slovo was already confined to the Johannesburg area.

Marks Shope, former secretary of the South African Congress of Trade Unions, and Dennis Brutus, a colored clerk and secretary of the South African non-white Sports Association, were both confined to Johannesburg for five years, forbidden to attend any gathering, including social functions, and ordered to report to the police once a week.

Mirth-Maker Martin Eases House Tension

By AB KENT

Members of the legislature played laugh-along-with-Martin for a half hour Monday night as the health minister ribbed critics and tickled the opposition.

He leaped to defend Premier Bennett and debt-free B.C., apologized for Attorney-General Robert Bonner's Doukhobor problems, moralized to Liberal Gordon Gibson and kidded NDP Cédric Cox in Spanish—about his recent trip to Cuba.

Mr. Martin took Mrs. Lois Hagen (NDP, Grand Forks, Greenwood) to task for saying last week the government had accepted a role of appeasement in dealing with the disident Doukhobors.

"If several centuries of czars couldn't do it, how can you expect our little old attorney-general to do it?" the minister said.

"Rasputin," muttered an NDP member.

He cautioned Liberal Leader Perrault against "flying into print" with remarks directed at the premier.

"When my premier is insulted, we are insulted," he declared with a gesture to the government benches.

"Our premier is not weasly-measly. He does not engage in activities which justify him being called weasly-measly," Mr. Martin said amid giggling.

Mr. Cox (NDP-Burnaby) grew red when the minister said something about "senoritas" in Spanish, drawing more guffaws from both sides of the floor.

"Are you kissing cousins, too?" quipped Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

SO INNOCENT

"He's as innocent as the day is long; otherwise he wouldn't have gone down there," Mr. Martin said with Mr. Cox grinning broadly.

QUOTES VERSE

Then he turned poetic, quoting verse to ebullient Gordon Gibson, who is known for criticizing the premier:

"I don't set up to be no judge of right and wrong in men."

"I've lost the trall a few times myself and may get lost again . . ."

When at last he got into his speech, the health minister reiterated a plea against smoking, announced government participation in a school campaign of the Non-Smokers' League of Canada and confessed that he'd like to start smoking again himself.

He said closure of Colquitz mental hospital is within sight. Since announcing last year that it would be shut, 100 patients have been transferred and some 180 would be sent to Essondale for integration as beds become available.

Farmers Would End Railroad Closings

OTTAWA (CP)—A halt to all Canadian rail abandonments was urged today until the federal government has determined the impact of such railway dislocation on the economy and population.

ALEX MATTHEW
"I protest!"

STOP THE HERESY! AT UBC—MATTHEW

A Social Creditor Monday said taxpayers' money should not be used for the salary of a university professor who denies God.

Alex Matthew (SC—Vancouver Centre) told the legislature: "I demand he should be stopped."

He was talking about UBC philosophy professor Peter Remnant, quoted last Nov. 20 as telling students, "There is no God."

Mr. Matthew called it "heresy."

Everyone was entitled to his own beliefs, Mr. Matthew said, but when a university professor lecturing 1,000 students "on heretical lines" that was different.

"I protest our payment of his salary to do that."

Chipped in John Squires (NDP—Alberni): "Let's start burning books, too."

Mr. Matthew also called for an investigation into reports he says he's heard of theft and mismanagement of funds in Vancouver General Hospital.

"I hear the rates are going up because of rumors of mismanagement over spending and even petty theft."

Three-Power Talks On Halibut Fishing

TOKYO (Reuters) — The United States, Canada and Japan began five days of talks today on measures to conserve halibut resources in the eastern Bering Sea.

The talks were expected to have considerable influence later this year when negotiations begin on a new fishery treaty among the three nations.

This week's meeting was expected to concentrate on what voluntary restrictions Japan should observe in the interests of conserving halibut resources.

The present halibut fishing treaty limits the fishing season, the size of halibut that may be caught and the methods of catching them. It permits fishing with lines but not with nets.

Japan has protested the ban on net fishing since halibut found near the bottom of the sea are bound to be caught with other fish during net fishing.

TREATY UNFAIR

The Japanese national daily, Yomiuri Shimbun, says in an editorial that the present treaty is grossly unfair to Japan.

Among other provisions, it forbids Japanese fishermen to catch salmon, ocean trout, herring and halibut in waters east of 175 degrees west longitude.

All the indications are that the United States and Canada want to preserve this restriction substantially in its present form after the current treaty expires, the paper says.

Japan cannot accept this for two simple reasons. First, it is contrary to the principle of the freedom of the high seas. Second, it sets a pattern for fisheries agreements between Japan and other countries.

The Canadian team is led by Deputy Fisheries Minister George Clark.

Diamond John

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the most distinguished members of press corps here is a ubiquitous correspondent known to his friends and compatriots as "the last of the big free-loaders."

We called him "Diamond John."

He came by his title by virtue of having dined gratis for 10 straight nights on anchovies and goose liver canapes, which are to a Washington cocktail party what gun wadding is to the field artillery.

This was in 1958 and the record still stands. I doubt it will ever be broken, for freeloading seems to be a dying art. A really talented free-loader is almost as rare now-days as a zither tuner.

Most of the old-timers who developed the modern techniques of freeloading now are on the inactive list, having been rendered hors de combat by a few too many hors d'oeuvres.

Occasionally, they will come out of retirement and flash some of their old form. But it's apparent that they are a step slower

Harkness to Carry On A-Arms Fight

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Douglas Harkness predicted Monday that the Diefenbaker government could not get re-elected on its present defence policy.

He made the statement in the course of a half-hour press conference he held Monday afternoon, after telling the Commons he had quit as defence minister in a dispute over nuclear policy with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

When he was first asked if he thought the government could gain re-election on its present defence policy, he replied:

"I am not a prophet."

Then he was asked to say what his answer would be as a politician he said:

"My own view is that it could not."

Mr. Harkness also said he believed the people of Canada were in favor of providing tactical nuclear weapons for their armed forces.

He expressed the view that the reason there appeared to be more controversy in Canada over acquiring nuclear weapons was that there were a number of small but vocal anti-nuclear groups active in Canada.

Q — Do you know any other ministers who are going to follow you out of the cabinet?

A — None.

Q — By resigning you have expressed non-confidence in the government's defence policy. How are you going to vote (when the opposition non-confidence motion comes up)?

A — I don't know. What is the motion? Let's not have hypothetical questions.

Q — You said you tried to resign several times. Did the prime minister indicate he would go along closer to your way of thinking?

Acceptable

A — I thought when I made a statement, and if there was no public objection (by the prime minister) that that would be accepted as the position.

No Political Football, Pearson Urges Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester Pearson pleaded with Prime Minister Diefenbaker Monday not to make a political football out of the U.S. state department's statement last week on Canadian nuclear policy.

Mr. Pearson referred in the Commons to the statement as "the unfortunate and most regrettable faux pas made in Washington."

The Liberal leader quoted the prime minister as saying in the United States in late 1957:

"The candor with which we can communicate with each other strengthens our understanding of each other, and helps us to avoid the pitfalls of misunderstanding which have bedeviled relations of so many other countries in the world."

As soon as Mr. Pearson completed the quotation, the prime minister interjected:

"Not by press release."

Mr. Pearson subsequently went on to attack the government for its record on unemployment, and for the fact that the 1962-63 spending estimates still have not been passed by Parliament with the fiscal year almost over.

As Monday's sitting began more than 600 persons crowded into the Commons galleries to hear Defence Minister Harkness announce his resignation. Some had queued well before the House opened.

Soon thereafter, following the change in views he underwent between Thursday last and Monday, Mr. Harkness would only say he was convinced by "subsequent discussion" that the Diefenbaker policy of delay in acceptance of nuclear weapons was not going to change.

"What nonsense" for a man who hopes to become prime minister, Mr. Lewis scoffed.

He said the letter of resignation of Douglas Harkness as defence minister, and Prime Minister Diefenbaker's reply, show that the two differed only on the course which should be followed to acquire nuclear weapons.

When Mr. Pearson began speaking, it quickly became clear that the opposition leader was to clash repeatedly with Mr. Diefenbaker.

At one point the prime minister interjected that the government will be returned to office whenever it goes to the people for a new mandate.

"There's a new definition of an optimist," retorted Mr. Pearson.

When Mr. Pearson left the assembly guessing how he would phrase his non-confidential statement, Mr. Pearson said he believed their talk would have useful results.

It was the first time he has ever seen the premier alone.

Mountbatten In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Mountbatten, chief of the British defence staff, arrived Monday for routine consultations with United States defence officials in Washington. He declined to make any statement on his arrival from London.

Without going into specific details, Mr. Mountbatten said he believed their talk would have useful results.

It was the first time he has ever seen the premier alone.

TALKS USEFUL, SAYS PERRAULT

Liberal Leader Ray Perrault had a 45-minute private conference Monday with Premier Bennett — his first — ever.

Mr. Perrault said it was "very friendly."

The premier invited the Liberal leader to a meeting in his office last week.

"There's a new definition of an optimist," retorted Mr. Perrault.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

It has been a long time since basketball drew more than a passel of close relatives in this village. The Dominoes and Blue Ribbons used to get people off their butts but that was before television and lovemaking kept them home in Mortgage Heights.

Neither of these activities has gone out of style, of course, but attending basketball games in the intervening period became almost passe.

Even in the early part of this season when Haida Chiefs were stoking up memories of Norm Baker, the Chapmans, Porky Andrews and one, Douglas McPeden, the Chiefs didn't need a C.A. to tally the take.

Neil Sprinkling, the Chiefs' most prominent banker, recalls with horrible vividness the early receipts.

"Our first game we lost $12. Then it was $9. We made $39 in the third game. After that we had plus nights of $59 . . . $112 . . . and, lessee, oh yes, 29 cents."

"I didn't hear you right," I said. "I thought you said 29 cents."

"You did and I did," replied Sprinkling. "That was the night Haystack Calhoun rassed here and there was a high school tournament on. It was like playing in a mausoleum."

Beauty and . . . and . . . and . . . Norris

Those were difficult early days for Sprinkling. He had committed himself for $2,000 to satisfy guarantees demanded by Intercity League nabobs. Some nights it was a wonder he didn't feach for the marijuana to appease his jangled nerves.

Repeatedly he would say: "If people would just come out and see us, I'm sure they would keep coming. This is strictly a Victoria team. No imports. We could have had one. A good one. They tried to talk me into going after him. But I've never gone after anybody. That wouldn't be fair to my guys who have spent a lot of money and time to play. And it would defeat the purpose of having a senior team Victoria youngsters could aim for."

Before Saturday's game, Sprinkling frankly didn't know what kind of a crowd to expect. Fortunately the 601-pound Mr. Calhoun was contorting elsewhere. But the Auto Show was loading them in and it had Shirley Harmer who is prettier than Norris Martin.

Ten minutes before the game time, Sprinkling surveyed the innards of Central Junior High gym and exclaimed: "Migawd! Where did they come from?"

His state of euphoria was brought about by stands sardine-packed. Twenty came from Duncan where the natives saw Chiefs play earlier in the week. A special bus brought scholars from University School, impeccable in expensive vests and British accent.

That was enough to unravel Mr. Sprinkling. But then a taxi drove up, disgorged a gentleman in Hornburg and his lady in furs.

"Imagine!" said Mr. Sprinkling. "Now we're even getting them in taxis. We've arrived!"

Like Shooting Apples In a Barrel

So, it turned out, had the Chiefs.

They have been this season like the little girl with the curl—very good some nights, highly fragrant other nights. They were forced to experiment and they did not duck away from it. Their leader, Ken King, has an open mind but not a drafty brain.

When Bob Tomlinson said before one game, "We're tried lots of systems—let's try the Porky Andrews method," King did not pout nor shout. He remembered that six Chiefs had studied under master tutor Andrews and told them to go ahead.

No matter how cute or resourceful the system, however, basketball games are still won on shooting.

This was evident early in the second half Saturday. Everything the Chiefs put in the air found its way to the basket.

"I have seldom seen anything like it," New Westminster coach, Fred Colen, said later.

"They weren't dropping easy layups, either. Practically all their shots were from outside—difficult shots."

Spotswood Got Them Off the Hook

Suddenly the radar operation subsided. It was barely noticeable at first but after he missed a shot and was slow getting back, Martin beckoned to be taken off. Four games in five nights had emptied his oxygen tank. Foot blisters and haggard Charley-horses collected in a game Tuesday with Alberni compounded his misery.

By special arrangement with King, Martin sets his own playing time. "I want him in there as long as he can go—he's the best we have," explains King. "But when he is flagged I let him decide when to come off. When he's ready he tells me and I put him right back out there."

Martin's decision not to fight fatigue opened the door for Bill Spotswood, fresh and eager to revive the Chiefs. He did it admirably. When Westminster shifted its attention to Darrell Lorimer, Spotswood cruised through for three vital baskets. And when Spotswood was wounded, Lorimer took advantage of relaxed checking to put the thing away.

The Chiefs must win one more game from Westminster if they are to be seen again this winter. Should they reach the final Sprinkling may need a shoehorn to get all the zealots in. Lovemaking and TV will be strictly also-rans.

SOCCER POOL SCANDAL INVOLVES 67 PLAYERS

BELGRADE (Reuters) — The Croatian Football Association Monday night suspended 67 players from minor league clubs in the Zagreb area who were alleged to have been involved in a soccer pool results racket.

A police report said the players had received a total of 2,023,000 dinars (more than $2,688 at the official tourist rate of exchange) in bribes to "fix" results of soccer matches in which they played, the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported.

A total of 33 Yugoslav players were suspended for life last month for allegedly being involved in the racket.

The length of suspensions imposed on the 67 players was not announced.

STONE UNBEATEN

Zone Winners Find 'Spiel Trail Tough

TRAIL (CP) — Hometown club curlers and some efficient young men, from the north, pushed aside the favorites Monday as the B.C. Curling Association opened its 68th annual bonspiel.

Seven Trail rinks, two from Prince George and one from the Yukon made up 10 of the 14 undefeated rinks after the first day's play.

With some help from other entries in thespiel they hung defeats on six of the seven rinks chosen in earlier zone competition to qualify for the interzone men's curling championship, starting Thursday.

The only unbeaten zone winner was the Yukon rink, entry of bearded young curlers from Whitehorse whose average age is about 25. Their crisp, knockout curling, behind skip Lionel Stokes won them two victories against tough opponents.

Defending B.C. champion Reg Stone, Trail, knocked out this year at the zone level, still wasn't in form, but managed to squeeze a pair of one-rock victories during the day. Stone shook his head at the wins. "We've been beaten, but we haven't lost," he said.

Prince George skips, both two-for-two on the day with personnel in their mid-twenties.

Leading the seven unbeaten Trail rinks was dark-horse Ray Lyon, known as a strong local club member, who scored three coming home to edge zone winner Buzz McGibney 8-7 in the day's last draw.

Win or lose in the first three days of the bonspiel, the zone winners are assured berths in the interior playoffs. But each of the other 50 rinks in the bonspiel is seeking "back door" entry into the playoffs through one of 16 berths afforded by the bonspiel's three primary events.

Again, I don't want to detract from Tiger's victory. He was the better fighter that night and he won. But let's look at the result. The Associated Press score saw it as seven rounds for Tiger, five for me, and three even. And I took three of the last four rounds, including the last one. Does that constitute a fearful beating?

Had I started a little earlier, obviously, I would have won the fight.

Defending B.C. champion Reg Stone, Trail, knocked out this year at the zone level, still wasn't in form, but managed to squeeze a pair of one-rock victories during the day. Stone shook his head at the wins. "We've been beaten, but we haven't lost," he said.

Prince George skips, both two-for-two on the day with personnel in their mid-twenties.

Leading the seven unbeaten Trail rinks was dark-horse Ray Lyon, known as a strong local club member, who scored three coming home to edge zone winner Buzz McGibney 8-7 in the day's last draw.

Win or lose in the first three days of the bonspiel, the zone winners are assured berths in the interior playoffs. But each of the other 50 rinks in the bonspiel is seeking "back door" entry into the playoffs through one of 16 berths afforded by the bonspiel's three primary events.

Again, I don't want to detract from Tiger's victory. He was the better fighter that night and he won. But let's look at the result. The Associated Press score saw it as seven rounds for Tiger, five for me, and three even. And I took three of the last four rounds, including the last one. Does that constitute a fearful beating?

Had I started a little earlier, obviously, I would have won the fight.

Monopoly Feared In Medicare Plan

Plans for pooled risk medicare in B.C. would vest control in a monopolistic body of private individuals, according to the New Democratic party.

He said it was not a non-profit medicare plan.

FORCED IN

All present insurers—whether making a profit or not—would be forced into it, Mr. Harding said.

It would be completely controlled by MSA, MSI and private insurance companies, he said.

He said his information came from a draft constitution and bylaws of United Medical Insurers.

Premier Bennett denied ever having seen it. So did Health Minister Eric Martin.

"This draft has been prepared without the knowledge of the public and without the knowledge or consent of the premium-paying members of the various plans involved."

"It implemented it will in a roundabout way force the public to subsidize profit-making insurance companies and will hand over complete control of standards and costs of health care to a monopolistic body of private individuals."

Premier Bennett is using a Hitler technique against the Liberals, one of their MLAs charged Monday.

"You will not gag us," said Harry McKay, member for Fernie.

He said he wasn't surprised in the light of the Liberal victory in the Point Grey byelection last December.

"But I do resent the reference of the premier to fifth columnists and traitors," he said, charging Mr. Bennett had made the remark last week.

"Surely no one in this House disputes the loyalty of any member?" Attacks of that nature are despicable.

"They are based on a philosophy that you are either for your government or against your country—this was a Hitler technique. We will not accept that philosophy here."

Criticism of Social Credit policy was not criticism of B.C., Mr. McKay said.

NO SAY

Mr. Harding said if indigents were covered, the government would have to contribute, but would have no say in administration or costs.

He said a number of groups are refusing to have anything to do with it—such as the Credit Union and Co-operative and Government Employees' Medical Services plans.

Any private plan, Mr. Harding said, would be opposed by the NDP.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1963—PAGE 11

Arthur Mayse

Tom Nisbet left his hat in Karachi, Pakistan, three weeks ago, picked it up in a New York restaurant next day, and took it home to Sunningdale, Berkshire, England, arriving in time for dinner with his Danish wife, Birthe, and their three boys.

If some globe-girdling errand hasn't intervened, Captain Nisbet is home again today. He left Victoria Monday morning for Vancouver, there to pick up a Boeing 707 jet liner from Fiji and return to London airport.

Speedbird is the name of that ship, and as BOAC flight manager for 707s, Capt. Nisbet is thoroughly familiar with the streamlined monster. (He was at the controls 150 miles east of Vancouver last Thursday, about to start letting down for the Sea Island airport approach, when bad weather forced a diversion to Edmonton.)

"That must have been pretty nerve-wracking," I suggested to the slim 43-year-old Scotsman, relaxed by a crackling fireplace in the Lockhaven Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Mathison. "Having to alter course with the Queen and Prince Philip on board."

Capt. Nisbet smiled. "A nuisance," he said, "but nothing to be nervous about. The Royal couple are experienced travellers, and the best of passengers... the sort who understand we haven't altogether beaten the weather yet."

Precautions for the flight from London to Fiji via Vancouver... and Edmonton... were elaborate. The aircraft, one of BOAC's 20 Intercontinental 707s, powered by four Rolls Royce engines, was a standard ship of the line.

"But," said the captain, "the combinations we worked into this ship weren't standard by any means!"

Two weeks earlier, Tom Nisbet covered the route in preparation for his first trip with royalty. At Vancouver, he made a thorough check of airport facilities, which he found "very good indeed."

This, by the way, is the first time one of BOAC's far-flying birds has touched down at Vancouver.

Capt. Nisbet couldn't talk about his illustrious passengers, but spoke with an airman's enthusiasm of the long-range craft that his line

Car Weaved Half-Mile, Court Told

A car which struck down an elderly man who later died of multiple fractures was seen weaving over half a mile immediately before the accident New Year's Day, it was stated in city police court today.

Preliminary hearing opened in the case of Government House employee Hendrick Witteveen, who is charged with criminal negligence in the death of Arthur Vincent Seear, 79.

Alfred Simonson, 2824 Shelbourne, told the court he was driving north on Richmond at about 5 p.m. behind the car which hurled the elderly pedestrian 40 feet in the collision at Bay and Richmond.

CAR SWERVED

Mr. Seear, who lived alone at 2042 Meadow Place died in Veteran's Hospital at 5:55 a.m. Jan. 4.

"My wife and I were driving along Richmond Road near Quamichan, when we noticed the car ahead of us swerve to miss a parked car," Mr. Simonson testified.

"We stopped for the red light at Oak Bay Avenue. When the light turned green the car proceeded across the intersection and went over the curb on the right hand side.

"The car went along Richmond and again swerved left to miss a car parked on the right, nearly hitting oncoming traffic," the witness continued.

"It proceeded along Richmond to Bay. That's when I saw the gentleman in the crosswalk," Mr. Simonson said.

"The two merged and there was the collision."

20-25 MPH

The witness testified he thought the car which struck Mr. Seear was travelling 20 to 25 mph.

He said the car continued along Richmond without stopping.

"I stopped the car and got out. The fellow was lying on the side of the road," he testified.

The old Lutheran minister was proud of his English, and wished to conduct the service in it. Birth and I agreed—but afterward, just to make sure, we persuaded him to marry us in Danish as well."

ALL RIBS BROKEN

He said every rib on the left side of the victim had been fractured, and the pelvis was fractured in three places. The right hip socket also had been broken, and both bones of the lower left leg snapped. The left collarbone also was fractured.

Defence counsel Rodney Taylor asked Dr. McNeely if the fractures "could have resulted from his having fallen to the ground and hitting the pavement or curb."

The doctor said that although Mr. Seear was an elderly man, he doubted this number of fractures could result from such a fall.

Witteveen originally was charged with impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene.

These charges were withdrawn in favor of the criminal charge when Mr. Seear died.

The hearing continues.

Old Africa Hand Speaks Here On Wednesday

George B. Cartland, former deputy governor of Uganda, arrived today at Patricia Bay Airport from Washington, D.C., to begin a trans-Canada speaking tour.

He will talk about East Africa to the Canadian Institute of International Affairs at a private meeting here, Wednesday and again in Vancouver Thursday.

Mr. Cartland has African experience dating back to 1935 when he began nine years service as district commissioner in what is now Ghana, then the Gold Coast Colony.

A woman was overcome by St. Joseph's Hospital but was smoke in a fire which broke out this morning in a third floor room of the Westholme Hotel, 1417 Government Street.

Helen Lambert, sole occupant of the room in which the blaze occurred, was taken to the Knud Poulsens have been snowed under with furniture, dishes, pots and pans since a public appeal was organized by Mrs. Walter Howes, 148 Goward.

Authority to double the limit of shares held by an individual member of Victoria Building Co-operative Union to increase participation in a new labor headquarters was granted by the union Monday.

Members may now hold up to $20,000 in stock of the union, which is about to construct a $150,000 labor centre on Quadra.

The annual meeting also declared a 4 per cent dividend on the past year's operations, which show assets of $85,000.

Plans of the new building were reviewed by directors for the benefit of nearly 100 members attending the meeting at the eight-year-old labor hall at 613 Pandora.

Co-operative president E. T. Staley said directors recommend a $100,000 mortgage for the new building, enabling the co-operative to retain the old structure until opening day.

"This will not be as big a venture, comparatively, as going into the present building. There were $220 in assets when the co-operative started in 1954," he said.

Dramatic sketches from Dickens' works will be given by Tom Luckett from Vancouver, to be followed by a tour of Ann Hathaway's Cottage.

Tickets and further information can be obtained from Mrs. Dorothy H. White, 86 Kingham Place, or phone GR 9-5612.

Oak Bay Aims Parking Ban At Jalopies

A general ban on street parking for more than 24 hours at a time in Oak Bay is aimed at unsightly jalopies and cars that impede motorists' use of driveways.

Oak Bay council Monday night gave first three readings to a bylaw that would restrict parking for everyone, including householders without driveways.

"A lot of people get an old car, broken down, and leave it on the street for weeks," said Reeve George Murdoch.

"They are a detriment to the neighborhood, and make it inconvenient for people across the street to get out of their driveways," the reeve said.

LOCAL TUGBOAT firm's late model, shallow draft harbor craft earmarked for police duties showed its tail in 20-knot trial with Capt. Gordon Aske at the helm today. Vessel is volunteered to city police for use in case of emergency, with crew supplied

City Eager To Talk Park Sale

A surprise proposal from Saanich council to buy the city's 707-acre Beaver-Elk Lake property was welcomed by City Hall today.

The proposal that overtures be made to the city came from Coun. Leslie Passmore and was approved without discussion by Saanich council Monday night.

He said the city should be willing to sell the recreational and watershed area at a "reasonable price" so that Saanich could take it over and develop it as a dedicated park.

Heavy Rain Forecast For Tonight

More rain, wind with brisk gusts and mild temperatures are forecast for Victoria to night and Wednesday.

This morning's bright skies were expected to give way to thickening cloud borne on 30-35 miles an hour wind from the southeast later today and overnight, with gusty winds shifting to the southwest Wednesday morning.

Heaviest rain was forecast for tonight, with a "showery" condition Wednesday.

Thermometer should read a moderate 45-50 overnight to mid-day.

Gusts Hit 68 MPH In Saanich

High gusts peaking at 68 miles an hour blew across Saanich Peninsula Monday night as wind featured the weather picture for the second straight day.

Effects of the last hammering were negligible compared with Sunday's storm, which missed the city and toppled trees on buildings, power and telephone lines from Ardmor to Alberni.

Telephone crews today were still patching up some of the 2,000 services that failed in the Duncan-Cowichan-Cobble Hill areas Sunday.

$25,000 DAMAGE

Gales in the Cowichan Valley rose to 80 miles an hour, lashed Cowichan Bay and caused an estimated $25,000 damage at Maple Bay Marina.

In the southern part of the valley power poles snapped before the blow, leaving some residents without electricity 24 hours.

An electrical storm climaxed two days of wind and rain at Port Alberni, causing transmission pole circuits to blow and leaving Sproat Lake, Great Central Lake and part of Beaver Creek without power.

FIELDS FLOODED

Rain measured 5.87 inches from Saturday to Monday, raising creek levels and flooding low fields.

Unusually high tides are forecast Wednesday, with the possibility of backing up Somenos River.

Both Victoria and the west coast of Vancouver Island are due for more wind, with sunny periods.

Legislature Speakers

An opposition member will lead off Wednesday's debate in the legislature.

First speaker at the 2 p.m. sitting will be Tony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie).

He will be followed by Tom Bate (SC—Vancouver—Point Grey), Leo Nimsick (NDP—Cranbrook), Don Robinson (SC—Lillooet) and John Squire (NDP—Alberni).

Q. Can Victoria College fees be deducted on a parent's income tax return? J.R.

A. No; they can only be deducted on a student's tax return.

Q. Where and how is propane gas made? H.L.

A. Propane gas is a by-product of crude oil. It is found in refineries to be purified and "bottled".

ASK ANDY . . .

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Robert Tom, age 13, of San Francisco, Calif., for his question:

How do radio waves travel?

out as sounds of words and music for our ears to hear.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Kristi Ann Holtzoff, age nine, of Maurice, Ia., for her question:

Are there any mister ladybugs?

Long ago, someone dedicated this rosy-red little beetle to the Virgin Mary, and it became known as the ladybug beetle. We call it the ladybug or the lady beetle. In any case, we can count the pretty little insects among our friends, for every year they devour hosts of aphids and other insects which feed on our food crops.

In America alone we have more than 350 different ladybugs. And there are both males and females in every variety. The little, round, red beetle with its black spots that you find in the garden could be either Mr. or Mrs. Ladybug.

The different aspects of electromagnetic energy occur because of different wave lengths. The pulses are wave lengths, somewhat like hills and dales, and the measure of a wave length is from one crest to the next. Radio waves are much longer than light waves, and we can measure them in meters. There are short radio waves of less than one meter and long radio waves of 30,000 meters or more.

Most radio programs travel on medium wave lengths, ranging from 100 to 10,000 meters. The energy pulses forth from the broadcasting station and fans out in all directions. Some of them strike the ground and bounce along in little hops. Much of their energy is absorbed by the earth, but they may be strong enough to be picked up by a receiving set 100 to 300 miles away.

Shorter radio waves use the sky as a sounding board. They fan out from the broadcasting antenna in straight lines and angle up to strike the ionosphere 60 to 200 miles above the earth. The ionosphere is a layer of charged particles which stops the radio waves and angles them down again to the earth. Short radio waves of 20 to 200 meters bounce up and down in steps like giant pyramids.

Speed of Light

They may strike the earth 1,000 miles from the radio station. There they can be brought to life by a receiving set and perhaps re-transmitted on another 1,000-mile hop. Some short-wave radio waves have been caught hopping around the globe several times.

All electromagnetic energy travels at the velocity of light, which is about 186,000 miles a second. Long radio waves and short radio waves can whip around the equator more than seven times in a single second. We cannot see them, feel them or hear them on their speedy journeys. They come to life only when they are trapped and decoded by a receiving set.

The radio energy generated in the broadcasting antenna is like an empty envelope. Other instruments are used to put kinks in the streaming energy which acts like a postman. The kinks are coded messages. When the radio waves are trapped by a receiving set, the kinks are decoded and sent

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Emas

Cemeteries for Pets?

Yes. There are a number of private cemeteries that cater only to dogs or cats.

Clinic: Q. Is there any medicine that can curb a cat's appetite? Our cat weighs 21 pounds and I'm afraid he'll get a heart attack. He eats fresh liver, chicken, cat food and dog food. I have him down to one meal a day but I can't curb his appetite.

Mrs. W. G. Tacoma, Wash. A. It is not practical to curb an animal's appetite with drugs. The thing to do is to curb the food. You set a real fine table for your pet, and that's good. But reduce the portions! Nothing takes off weight like eating less.

Clinic: Q. In a recent column you referred to the American Humane Society. Is this the same as the SPCA?

M.M.S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

A. No. More than 600 different societies operate in the U.S. and Canada for the prevention of cruelty to animals. They have many names—SPCA, Animal Rescue League, Human Society and so on. Many are affiliated with the American Humane Association, Denver, Colorado. It is well for pet owners to be familiar with their local anti-cruelty organizations. In their dedication, put forward a Philippines claim to North Borneo but it was rejected by the foreign secretary, Earl of Home.

New Judge Presides At Citizenship

Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake will preside for the first time at a naturalization ceremony Wednesday.

At 10 a.m. in the Court-house, 27 New Canadians will receive their citizenship papers. Later they will be entertained at a reception organized by the Citizenship Council.

Four gun detachments of 105 mm guns under the command of Lt. Deere Elcoate will fire a 21-gun Royal salute Wednesday noon to mark the anniversary of the ascension of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II.

Major G. W. Archer, commanding officer of the Fifth (B.C.) Independent Medium Battery R.C.A., has announced the appointment of three members of the young soldiers' training program to the rank of commissioned officer.

The new second lieutenants are A. A. Gillan, R. G. Humphreys and R. I. Gustafson. The three officers joined the battery at 16 years of age and are the first to receive commissioned rank in the student program of militia training held each Friday night and Saturday morning at Bay Street Armory.

They are all second-year students at Victoria College.

Heat, Exercise May Help Aching Neck and Shoulders

Many folks "get it in the such as this. Here are two of them." When they are tired of them. In other words, fatigue. 1. Stand tall. Let your arms may concentrate on the neck, hanging limply at your sides. As so that it actually aches. With you lift your shoulders, lower your head backwards. Lower your shoulders and return the head to its normal position. Continue, slowly.

2. Lie on the floor, on your back. Raise your arms upward so that your arms are at right angles to your body. Keeping the arm in this position, reach toward the ceiling with your right arm. Relax. Continue. Do this very slowly.

Heat is a great help for those who "get it in the neck." If you have this problem, first, lie down for a short rest period with a hot-water bottle under your neck. Then, do the two exercises I have suggested.

If any of you would like to have my leaflet, "Your Stiff Neck," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 18. Ad- are extremely helpful and re- dress Josephine Lowman in Taxing after a long session care of this newspaper.

Auxiliary Pledges Hospital $24,000

As a climax to a year of volunteer work for Royal Jubilee Hospital, Mrs. K. W. L. Scace, retiring president of the Junior Auxiliary, at annual meeting Monday afternoon, presented Dr. Murray A. Johnson with a pledge to give $24,000 for an image amplifier x-ray machine.

Mrs. Scace explained that this money is a part of $40,000 in cash and bonds earmarked by the auxiliary for the new hospital wing. Balance will be used for other medical and surgical equipment.

Further auxiliary investments totalling $12,000 "may be realized when needed by the hospital."

Secretary's report presented by Mrs. H. K. Bennett, showed that in the past year the auxiliary had also purchased for the hospital a cardiac internal-external machine at a cost of $100.

Main fund-raising events include a Thrift Shop maintained by 140 hours of volunteer time and that donated $2,600; a mobile shop in the hospital that cleared $2,500 and a bazaar that made a net profit of $3,761.07. Knitting and show cases in the hospital and a spring fashion show also realized money.

The auxiliary includes 86 active members and 63 associates.

New officers are Mrs. R. W. Campbell, president; Mrs. J.

Pennington, first vice-president; Mrs. D. J. Hunter, second; Mrs. D. J. Elder, recording secretary; Mrs. A. Worthington, treasurer; Mrs. A. P. Rainey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. H. Carter, members; Mrs. P. S. Watt, Thrift Shop and Mrs. H. Kingsley, Mobile Shop.

Committee chairmen include Mrs. E. Falconer and Mrs. R. Humphrey, thrift and mobile shops treasurers; Mrs. P. J. Steel, publicity; Mrs. F. W. Bartholomew, hospital visiting; Mrs. C. Milligan, knitting; Mrs. K. W. L. Scace, immediate past president, placement; Mrs. David Longridge, tea; Mrs. J. B. Hedley, training school, and Mrs. E. E. Chamberlain, telephone. Bazaar convener is Mrs. W. A. Trenholme assisted by Mrs. Hunter.

Special guests included, Dr. and Mrs. Murray Anderson, Mrs. George Masters, Mrs. Ian Horne, J. L. Hobbs, Mrs. Leslie Macdonell, Mrs. W. Davenport, Mrs. H. G. Southin, Miss M. E. Thompson, director of nursing and the following members of her staff, Miss F. Ferguson, Miss M. Green and Miss E. Moore.

Afternoon tea was served with Mrs. Masters, Mrs. Horne, Mrs. Anderson and Miss Thompson, presiding at the tea table.

Correction

The tea arranged by the Comitias Club to raise money for the group's Victoria College fund, will be held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Saturday, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., and not Friday, as previously announced.

Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Smith entertained at a dinner party at their home on Shore Way Drive last Friday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Leon and Hynes of Montreal. Mr. Hynes is president of Canadian Industries Ltd. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Adams, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. T. Mulligan, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Mackinnon.

IN RHODESIA

Education Counts, Not Skin Color

An educational certificate is beginning to mean more than the color of your skin in Rhodesia, Mrs. G. Smith told members of the United Church Women at their annual Presbyter meeting Monday afternoon in Metropolitan United Church.

Mrs. Smith, who has been a missionary with her husband in Luanshya, Rhodesia, for the past 10 years, said, "The Africans are hungry for education and there is a great desire to learn. They go to night school and take correspondence courses at all ages from 20 to 40."

As African children and adults begin to receive educational certificates it is being discovered that it is the certificate that counts and not their color." Because of this many Europeans are learning that they, too, must have more education and training to compete for better jobs.

CHANGING PATTERN

The vivacious speaker anticipated a change in the pattern of life in Rhodesia now that Africans have secured a majority in the government gained in a by-election last October. "That by-election was so quiet it was mysterious—not a stone was thrown—the people had been trained (by Africans) that they must not have a stone or a branch in their hand."

Nonetheless there are many problems ahead as many Africans are ill-prepared for public office, but she added, "so many are English."

Although integration is slowly taking place one of the problems of the Africans today said Mrs. Smith, "is that he is now being given a higher salary—better house—money for a car and other externals of western civilization, but because of the color barrier he has still few opportunities to socialize."

She pointed out how the English put up bars bearing large signs "multi-racial bars," but no English person would go in them, so again the African is left alone.

For the first time the African can now buy spirits and many bright young men and women who drift into these bars become discontented.

INTEGRATION

In relating incidents to illustrate the work that is being done in integration, Mrs. Smith told of working with the YWCA, an organization that is already functioning in many Rhodesian towns. They had decided to put on a concert at a time of great political tensions. Signs were torn down by both Europeans and Africans. But the concert, in which both races participated, went on and was a success.

Among the things accomplished is the establishment of a library at Luanshya to assist the Africans with their education. Serving all of Africa is an ecumenical centre in Ndola which trains people to write.

Not discouraged by many an accusing finger that is pointed at missionaries' saying, "you have worked for us but not with us," Mrs. Smith is eager to return to Rhodesia with her husband after they have completed an educational course at the University of British Columbia. In September they will both begin teaching African students at a training college in Mindola.

Presbyterian president, Mrs. V. A. Beaumont is chairman of the two-day meeting which continued today.

At the Monday evening session Mrs. Ethel Packard addressed the gathering on the United Church home for girls. There was a film strip on Taiwan. Mrs. W. G. Haglund reported on stewardship and recruiting and Mrs. D. B. Sparling gave the meditation.

At the afternoon session Mrs. W. G. Gibb took worship period; Mrs. C. W. Davies, roll call; and Mrs. C. J. Jameson gave the welcome. Rev. John Garden took Bible study and Mrs. G. Williamson gave the literature review.

A Reunion After 40 Years

Mrs. Fred Gilham left on Saturday morning to fly to Toronto after spending nearly three weeks with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Graeme Malcolm at their Lorne Terrace home here. This is the first time the brother and sister have been together in 44 years, Mrs. Gilham having spent 40 years in South Africa. She returned to England recently and then went to the United States to visit her son Fred, who was taking a course at Raleigh, N.C. Now Mrs. Gilham is visiting a daughter, Mrs. G. Adolph, in St. Catharines, Ont., before going back to Southampton, England, to make her future home.

Sign Book

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rivers of Sidney, B.C., were recent visitors to California who signed the book in British Columbia House in San Francisco.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Martin, 804 Vernon Avenue, have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Margaret to David Henry Dyer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dyer, 1781 Keith Place. The wedding will take place in St. Aidan's-United-Church, Friday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. A. G. McLeod will officiate.

Receives Names

Yvonne June were the names received by the nine-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bradley of Ganges Hill, Salt Spring Island, at a baptism in Ganges United Church at which Dr. Norah Hughes officiated. The little girl's godparents are Mr. and Mrs. Nels Voden. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Winkell.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Exciting Fabric News In Dressmaker Suits

By PENNY SAVER

When shopping for a suit this spring be on the alert for a new and exciting fabric made of 10 per cent random silk and 90 per cent worsted wool. One of the joys of this fabric is that it is truly crease resistant. You can sit through a concert, then step out to another function without a lapful of wrinkles.

Another feature of this material is the smooth surface which gives the appearance of a pure silk weave. Fashioned in classic dressmaker styles it is a costume that will take you most anywhere.

Suit prices range between $59.95 and $79.95. You may think this is expensive but don't pass a judgment until you have seen them.

Colors are black and navy only as it has not yet been possible to produce a satisfactory surface on the lighter shades. Perhaps in the future pastels will be available.

These fabulous suits along with some in pink wool are being featured in one particular store this week. The pink is a luscious watermelon shade and costs only $39.95.

This year tuck-in blouses are out. That is, out of fashion. Replacing them are over-blouses in dainty pink floral patterns. The shift blouse with round neck and slits at the side seams is one of the most popular styles. These are featured in the same store in a fine washable cotton for $4.98 and $5.98.

A jacket blouse; that buttons down the front, comes in gay Bermuda patterns. The price—$6.98.

For the working girl there is a light grey wool tweed tailored suit with black braid trim selling at $79.95. It is a smart suit that would see you through all seasons.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Be Honest, Sweety!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My best friend had a few dates with a young man who recently came to work in our office. She flipped for him. He then stopped dating her and started to date me. I tried to fight it, but I couldn't help falling for him. Now he says he is in love with me and wants to marry me! I love him, too, Abby. He has been sneaking around like two thieves so my girl friend's feelings won't be hurt. He swears he never told her he loved her, and I believe him. I hate to lose this girl's friendship and don't know how to break the news to her. Can you help me?

DEAR HAPPY BUT SAD: Attempting to cover up an office romance is like trying to smuggle dawn past a rooster. You and your young man should tell "Miss Also Ran" the facts as soon as possible. But be kind!

DEAR ABBY: When dining in a first-class restaurant, have you ever asked the waiter to wrap up the left-over steak for you to take home to the dog?

DEAR BOSTONIAN: Certainly. And it was delicious!

DEAR ABBY: We have been married 27 years and have four grown children. Please tell me, how long does a wife have to wait to get hot water? He got me the bathroom set six years ago, brand new. Also the hot-water tank. All he has to do is haul it upstairs and connect it up

Close Vote Beats Sewer Survey Bid

A request for permission to approve the integration of the various sewer systems in the municipality, aimed at integrating them into an overall system, was rejected by Saanich council Monday.

The vote was four to three against.

The request was made jointly by compiler-treasurer John Tribe and engineer Neville Life in an effort to curb rising maintenance costs.

After completion of the survey raters would be asked

Toy Pug Captures Top Prize

Three class wins and the title-best dog in the show went to a toy pug, Sam, at Victoria City Kennel Club's semi-annual parlor show last week.

Sam, owned by Mrs. R. J. McCoy, 4163 Dalmeny, was winner of best puppy, best toy and best toy puppy divisions, as awarded by judge W. P. Bowden of Victoria.

Other winners:

Best in sporting group: Alf, German shorthair pointer, owned by Lindsay Beaman, Victoria. Best puppy in sporting group: Sasha, golden retriever, Mrs. J. L. Smith, Victoria. Best in hound group and best puppy in hound group: Shannon, basenjou, Walter Pumfrey, Victoria.

'Accused Must Have Access To Lawyer'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto lawyer Friday urged more legal action against policemen who deny prisoners access to counsel.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Bar Association, Austin Cooper said lawsuits would "straighten them up and make them realize that a client's right to have access to counsel must not be denied."

Joseph Pomerant of Toronto said the problem was largely theoretical. Prisoners have the right to counsel, but "how do you get from a cell to a telephone?"

Mr. Cooper said the problem was largely theoretical. Prisoners have the right to counsel, but "how do you get from a cell to a telephone?"

She is survived by her husband, a sister, Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, also of Victoria, and a nephew in Seattle.

Five-Year Terms

SAANICH will hold a public hearing late in February or early in March to consider three zoning applications for the construction of apartments in the Cadboro Bay area.

The date of the hearing will be announced later.

THE BOARD OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES OF SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 62 (SOKEE)

In accordance with the provisions of Section 42(2) of the Public Libraries Act and as directed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council of the Province of British Columbia, a vote of the owner-electors of School District No. 62 (Sooke) will be taken on the question:

"Are you in favor of School District No. 62 (Sooke) becoming part of the Vancouver Island Regional Library District under the provisions of the Public Libraries Act?"

Driver Lauded By Judge After CPR Fired Him

Kenneth Walz, Vancouver Island truck driver who said he was fired by the CPR after he turned over his truck to avoid an accident, was commended for his action Monday by Mr. Justice Arthur Lord.

Mr. Justice Lord, in B.C. Supreme Court, in Vancouver, awarded $1,932 damages to the CPR against Melvin Nelson of Parksville, a logger whose motorcycle Walz swerved to miss when the two vehicles roared toward each other on the Port Alberni Highway last June 15.

"Walz's action cannot be criticized," said Mr. Justice Lord.

He was certainly justified in taking the course of action that he did. The whole situation was created by the reckless driving of the defendant. He was on the wrong side of the road and going at excessive speed."

Kissing Cousins' Label Tied on Bennett, Castro

Premier Bennett and Fidel Castro are kissing cousins, says the man who went to Cuba.

They both expropriate the same way, he says.

That's how Cedric Cox (NDP—Burnaby) summed up his trip to Cuba as Castro's guest earlier this year.

It was his answer to persistent needling from Premier Bennett about the trip.

Mr. Cox brought up the subject of Cuba himself in the legislature.

He contrasted his visit with remarks of deputy national-Social leader Real Caouette that "this system is not worth fighting for" and "Hitler is my idol."

"Tell us about the missiles in Cuba," taunted Mr. Bennett.

"I enjoyed my trip very much," replied Mr. Cox.

CEDRIC COX

"Who paid for it?"
"It was paid for by the Castro government."

Mr. Cox pointed out that the Chinese Nationalist government had paid for the recent trip to Formosa by national-Social leader Robert Thompson.

"I found," said Mr. Cox, returning to Cuba, "a great similarity to the way Fidel expropriates things in Cuba and the way our honorable premier does right here in B.C."

"In fact if I didn't know better, I would think they were kissing cousins."

"How do you like them misses?" added Tony Gargrave (NDP—Mackenzie).

"If you people want to hear about Cuba," Mr. Cox continued, "I'm holding a public meeting in Victoria on the 7th."

DEBTS NOW, BOND LATER—HARDING

A number of small sub-contractors have waited more than two years for payment on a B.C. government job, according to an Opposition MLA.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Monday night there are three or four firms involved.

They are owed under $10,000 on work on the Creston Salmon Highway, he said.

They were owed the money by a firm which went broke, Continental Contractors. The firm which took over, Mannix Co., Ltd., has never paid up.

Now, Mr. Harding said, the government was about to return to Mannix its performance bond.

"Under no circumstances whatever should that bond be returned to the contractor until all debts are satisfied."

"If you people want to hear about Cuba," Mr. Cox continued, "I'm holding a public meeting in Victoria on the 7th."

Gundy Aide Called 'Shake-Downer'

A business partner of PGE has been mentioned on the floor that Dominion Bridge Co. and Railway Vice-president Einar Gunderson has "shaken down" companies for Social Credit campaign funds, an Opposition member charged in the legislature Monday night.

Randolph Harding (NDP—Kaslo-Slocan) read a news account of the case of Allan S. Gentes, fined last month for income tax evasion in Vancouver.

Mr. Gunderson, one-time finance minister of the province, is a director of B.C. Hydro, of the Toll Authority and vice-president of the PGE.

"What alarms me," said Mr. Harding, "is that we know of others, whose names have not for years your party has been financed by big business."

"It's time political parties in this province had their campaign funds contribution books open to public inspection."

Mr. Harding suggested a similar scheme to the one operating in England where parties are limited on spending.

Dief Faces Certain Defeat

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

As the session proceeds, the method in the sometimes-seeming madness of our House becomes increasingly discernible. We're deep into the replies to the throne speech now; and listening to these rejoinders from both sides of the floor, one sees a picture of the wider British Columbia emerge.

The Speech to the Throne is government's statement of its achievements and aims. In their replies, members praise or blast, according to their political stripe. But whether blessing Mr. Bennett's administration or damning it, they take time to report what's going on in the bailiwick that sent each to the House.

Winter Wonderland

At Fernie in the Kootenays, we learned on Monday from youngish, bespectacled Liberal H. C. McKay, local effort has moved strongly to boost district economy by developing a new winter sports area. "Just over a year ago," said Mr. McKay, "a private company was formed by Fernie residents, most of whom wouldn't know one end of a ski from the other. They called it Snow Valley Ski Development Ltd., and just two weeks ago I took part in the official opening of a $200,000 ski resort owned and operated by local people.

"I mean lots of local people. The great bulk had to go to the bank to borrow the money to buy their shares. Others put equipment to work and took payment in shares. New jobs have been created, and the development will bring more motels and restaurants."

Local initiative has given Fernie "a new and flourishing secondary industry," but the project isn't complete.

"I should like to think that when the second stage of this development is going forward," Mr. McKay said, "we can look to the department of trade and industry for a portion of the funds required."

Food for thought here, and I hope our lower Island members will chew on it. The skiers who have pioneered Green Mountain above the Nanaimo Lakes deserve a spot of government help, to begin with a couple of miles of road to complete the link between their new lodge and the Island Highway.

Pot-Pourri

Monday was a catch-all day. Health Minister Martin, at the night sitting had his say on the perils of smoking. NDP's red-tieearing Cedric Cox indulged in some clever but inconclusive shadow-boxing with the premier on the matter of his Cuba junket as Fidel Castro's guest.

Social member A. S. Matthew, Vancouver Centre, aligned himself with the Diets against godless university professors and in latter portion of his speech, David Barrett, NDP, Dewart, charmed our ears with a quote from the Dutch philosopher Spinoza.

"Minds nevertheless," Mr. Barrett intoned, "are not conquered by arms, but by love and generosity."

I'm vague as to the reference, but approve this nod to the humanities. I rather approve young Mr. Barrett too; with his butch haircut and ingenuous smile. He spoke well and to the point on education in B.C., and while he entertains the usual fallacies about the modus operandi of the press, he was kinder to us than most.

Speaking of reporting, various members have suggested in a tentative sort of way that we should have a provincial Hansard. I'm not too sure this would work to their advantage. For one thing, with Hansard to hand like conscience made

- New Democratic Party caucus decides to support Social Credit non-confidence motion to go, thus assuring defeat of Diefenbaker administration by combined opposition.
- Reports sweep Ottawa of revolt by group of cabinet ministers seeking Diefenbaker's resignation so that government can be saved.
- These reports suggest Finance Minister George Nowlan would become prime minister temporarily.
- Procedure would be that if Diefenbaker quits Social Credit would withdraw non-confidence motion and keep Tory government in power under new prime minister for a further period.
- As Commons session began, no action had been taken by Diefenbaker.

Rusk Cleared Of Bungling

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Senate subcommittee has cleared State Secretary Rusk of charges of bungling by his department's criticism of Canadian nuclear policy and the chairman has called on Prime Minister Diefenbaker to clarify Canada's position.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, said Diefenbaker's position appears to require clarification in view of findings by the U.S. government that nuclear weapons are essential for the defense of North America and the NATO alliance.

Aiken headed a 90-minute secret hearing by his foreign relations subcommittee Monday. He told reporters later the United States doesn't want to meddle in Canadian political affairs but that Diefenbaker appeared to have provoked the department's public reaction by disclosing confidential information in the Canadian Parliament Jan. 25.

TALKS INCONCLUSIVE

At that time the prime minister stated the two governments were engaged "forcefully" in negotiating for Canadian acquisition of U.S. nuclear warheads. The state department denied this Jan. 20, saying the negotiations had been confidential, exploratory and inconclusive and that the Diefenbaker government hadn't contributed effectively to North American defense.

Aiken said he still is at a loss to know why the state department resorted to a public statement to make this view known, instead of employing confidential channels. But Rusk, who testified before the subcommittee, took full responsibility for the method employed, Aiken said.

"I am sure the secretary of state meant no offence to Canada. The secretary made clear in his release last Friday that while he regrets the tone of the statement—if this gave offence to some Canadians—this did not affect the position of the U.S. regarding nuclear weapons."

Aiken, who had accused the department of clumsiness before the hearing opened, said later he no longer feels the department was clumsy though he still is not entirely satisfied with the manner in which the public statement was handled.

RESIGNATION HAS IMPACT

An element that appeared to have modified the sharp criticism of the department's behavior was the sudden resignation of Defence Minister Harkness from the Canadian cabinet. Aiken said Harkness' resignation was considered by the subcommittee but he did not want to comment on this because "a

(Times' News & Services)

OTTAWA—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, faced with a reported cabinet revolt against his leadership, today apparently decided to let his Conservative government sink in a showdown Commons vote on the nuclear arms issue.

Mr. Diefenbaker charged into the Commons debate on non-confidence in the government today.

He demanded the non-confidence motion introduced Monday night by opposition leader Pearson as "general, widespread and obviously diffuse" and said Mr. Pearson is afraid to face the question of nuclear arms for Canadian forces.

Mr. Diefenbaker also accused U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk of "a further intrusion" into Canadian affairs.

Referring to Rusk's statement last week that a state department press release criticizing Canadian indecision on nuclear arms, although regrettable, was factually correct, Diefenbaker charged:

"This statement constitutes a further intrusion. Without any reservations . . . this subsequent statement by the secretary of state added to the seriousness of the earlier one."

Diefenbaker's decision against either dissolution or resignation appeared to leave the fate of his minority government squarely to a non-confidence vote scheduled for tonight.

With all three opposition parties having declared their intention to vote against the administration, its defeat was a virtual certainty. This would force the prime minister to dissolve parliament for a new general election.

HOUSE TENSE

A group of dissident cabinet ministers, fearful of an election on the U.S.-triggered nuclear defence issue, tried to force Diefenbaker's immediate resignation.

This move was brought up in the tense House in questioning by opposition leader Lester B. Pearson.

The Liberal leader asked Diefenbaker point-blank if any changes in the Conservative ministry were in the offing.

"I don't know what the current reports are from the propaganda factory," the prime minister snapped.

Did the prime minister consider such news reports to be Liberal propaganda? Pearson inquired.

"I consider them Liberally inspired," was the answer.

Diefenbaker, who spent the morning closeted in his residence while reports of the cabinet revolt shook Parliament Hill, received a rousing ovation from the Conservative benches as he entered the House shortly after 2:30 p.m. EST. All the cabinet ministers on hand joined in.

ON 'HEALTH GROUNDS'

The brief Commons drama unfolded following word from authoritative sources that a group of cabinet ministers wanted Diefenbaker to resign ostensibly on "health" grounds, before the showdown vote.

The sources said Finance Minister George Nowlan would become prime minister in any reorganized Conservative government.

They also indicated that Diefenbaker would be offered

Opposition United On Motion

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democratic Party leader, T. C. Douglas announced after a caucus meeting today of his 19-member group in the Commons they will vote against the government on both non-confidence motions now before the House.

The votes are to begin in the Commons not later than 8:15 p.m. EST tonight, (5:15 PST).

Mr. Douglas' announcement meant that the three opposition parties will unite against the government. The government needs the support of at least one of them—Liberal, Social Credit or NDP—or a major splinter of one of them to win.

The non-confidence motions were moved Monday night by the Liberal and Social Credit groups.

House standings now are: Progressive Conservatives 115 (but only 114 vote, with Speaker Marcel Lambert in the chair), Liberals 99, Social Credit 30, and NDP 19—total 263. There are two vacancies.

Both non-confidence motions are hinged on alleged indecision on the part of the government and are directly linked with the raging controversy over nuclear weapons.

DRAMATIC TURN

This controversy took a dramatic turn Monday with the resignation of Defence Minister Douglas Harkness, chief exponent in the cabinet of equipping Canada's armed forces with nuclear weapons. (See also page 5).

The Liberal motion, moved by Opposition Leader Pearson, reads:

"This government, because of lack of leadership, the breakdown of unity in the cabinet, and confusion and indecision in dealing with national and international problems, does not have the confidence of the Canadian people."

POLICY UNCLEAR

The Social Credit motion, technically an amendment to that of the Liberals, says the government has "failed up to this time to give a clear statement of policy respecting Canada's national defence."

It further charges the government with failure to organize the business of the Commons in such a way as to permit introduction of 1963-64 budget and spending estimates, and failure to "outline a positive program of follow-up action respecting many things for which this parliament and previous parliaments have already given authority."

Robert Thompson, leader of the party whose Commons votes have often saved the present regime from downfall, said Monday night Social Credit believes "that an election at this time is not really a good thing."

But he said it would be worse not to go to the country than to prolong the life of this government which is not fulfilling its responsibilities as it should."

NEW MOTION POSSIBLE

If Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government is defeated in the Commons on an opposition non-confidence motion tonight, it will have an opportunity to move a new motion of confidence in itself.

If either the Social Credit or the Liberal resolution passes, any member of the cabinet can move a new motion

17 Japanese Die In Snowslides

TOKYO (AP)—Snowslides killed 17 Japanese today, raising the death toll to at least 110 in Japan's worst winter in years.

National police said 12 Japanese are missing and 113 others have been injured in the blizzards that have lasted nearly a month.

Snow piled high on the hills started, crumbling in various parts of the snow-stricken areas along Japan's northwest coast.

The dead included two families buried in their homes.

Some 12,000 troops and thousands of workers were digging out railway tracks but the National Railway Administration said it did not expect to restore long-distance traffic in the area for several days.

Weathermen predicted that the worst of the snowfall was over but said warmer weather was expected and would precipitate more avalanches.

Atlantic Gale Batters Ships

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A slow-moving winter storm lashed the Atlantic today. Twenty-foot waves and 50-mile winds endangered more than a half-dozen ships and hobbled attempts at rescue.

The storm also pushed the heavy breakers onto vulnerable oceanfront property, battering resorts and swallowing yards of beach.

Ontario Tory Resigns Post

TORONTO (CP)—Edwin A. Goodman, Ontario vice-president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, announced today he has resigned from the Ontario committee on federal organization.

In a letter to Prime Minister Diefenbaker he said he is resigning for personal reasons and because he disagrees with the government's defense policy.

Goodman came to Canada in 1959.

Tom Nisbet left his hat in Karachi, Pakistan, three weeks ago, picked it up in a New York restaurant next day, and took it home to Sunningdale, Berkshire, England, arriving in time for dinner with his Danish wife, Birthe, and their three boys.

If some globe-girdling errand hasn't intervened, Captain Nisbet is home again today. He left Victoria Monday morning for Vancouver, there to pick up a Boeing 707 jet liner from Fiji and return it to London airport.

Speedbird is the name of that ship, and as BOAC flight manager for 707s, Capt. Nisbet is thoroughly familiar with the streamlined monster. He was at the controls 150 miles east of Vancouver last Thursday, about to start letting down for the Sea Island airport approach, when bad weather forced a diversion to Edmonton.

"That must have been pretty nerve-wracking," I suggested to the slim 43-year-old Scotsman, relaxed by a crackling fireplace in the Lockhaven Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Mathison. "Having to alter course with the Queen and Prince Philip on board."

Capt. Nisbet smiled. "A nuisance," he said, "but nothing to be nervous about. The Royal couple are experienced travellers, and the best of passengers... the sort who understand we haven't altogether beaten the weather yet."

Precautions for the flight from London to Fiji via Vancouver... and Edmonton... were elaborate. The aircraft, one of BOAC's 20 Intercontinental 707s, powered by four Rolls Royce engines, was a standard ship of the line.

"But," said the captain, "the combinations we worked into this ship weren't standard by any means!" Two weeks earlier, Tom Nisbet covered the route in preparation for his first trip with royalty. At Vancouver, he made a thorough check of airport facilities, which he found "very good indeed."

This, by the way, is the first time one of BOAC's far-flying birds has touched down at Vancouver.

Capt. Nisbet couldn't talk about his illustrious passengers, but spoke with an airman's enthusiasm of the long-range craft that his line

The driver of the car eastbound on Bay, he received lacerations to the left side of his head.

A passenger in his car, Peter McLellan, 55, of 3154 Fifth, also was cut on the head, but was released from hospital after treatment.

John Kneazeky, 2735 Cook, was driver of the other car which was travelling south on Government when the accident occurred at 10:50 a.m.

Victoria Sno-Birds Ski Club will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 749 Broughton Street.

Car Weaved Half Mile, Court Told

A car which struck down an elderly man who later died of multiple fractures was seen weaving over half a mile immediately before the accident New Year's Day, it was stated in city police court today.

Preliminary hearing opened in the case of Government House employee Hendrick Witteveen, who is charged with criminal negligence in the death of Arthur Vincent Seear, 79.

Alfred Simonson, 2824 Shelbourne, told the court he was driving north on Richmond at about 5 p.m. behind the car which hurtled the elderly pedestrian 40 feet in the collision at Bay and Richmond.

CAR SWERVED

Mr. Seear, who lived alone at 2024 Meadow Place died in Veterans' Hospital at 5:55 a.m. Jan. 4.

"My wife and I were driving along Richmond Road near Qualicum, when we noticed the car ahead of us swerve to miss a parked car," Mr. Simonson testified.

"We stopped for the red light at Oak Bay Avenue. When the light turned green the car proceeded across the intersection and went over the curb on the right hand side.

"The car went along Richmond and again swerved left to miss a car parked on the right, nearly hitting oncoming traffic," the witness continued.

"It proceeded along Richmond to Bay. That's when I saw the gentleman in the crosswalk," Mr. Simonson said.

"The two merged and there was the collision."

2025 MPH

The witness testified he thought the car which struck Mr. Seear was travelling 20 to 25 mph.

He said the car continued along Richmond without stopping.

"I stopped the car and got out. The fellow was lying on the side of the road," he testified.

The old Lutheran minister was proud of his English, and wished to conduct the service in it. Birthe and I agreed—but afterward, just to make sure, we persuaded him to marry us in Danish as well."

ALL RIBS BROKEN

He said every rib on the left side of the victim had been fractured and the pelvis was fractured in three places. The right hip socket also had been broken, and both bones of the lower left leg snapped. The left collarbone also was fractured.

Defence counsel Rodney Taylor asked Dr. McNeely if the fractures "could have resulted from his having fallen to the ground and hitting the pavement or curb."

The doctor said that although Mr. Seear was an elderly man, he doubted this number of fractures could result from such a fall.

Witteveen originally was charged with impaired driving and failing to remain at the scene.

These charges were withdrawn in favor of the criminal charge when Mr. Seear died.

The hearing continues.

Old Africa Hand Speaks Here On Wednesday

George B. Cartland, former deputy governor of Uganda, arrived today at Patricia Bay Airport from Washington, D.C., to begin a trans-Canada speaking tour.

He will talk about East Africa to the Canadian Institute of International Affairs at a private meeting here at Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

Among guest instructors during the term will be Elizabeth Goward, Naomi Patterson, Nell Bradshaw, and Elsie Hammer. Prospective members will be welcomed at the session tonight.

Mr. Cartland has African experience dating back to 1935 when he began nine years' service as district commissioner in what is now Ghana, then the Gold Coast Colony.

TRAIL (CP)—Reg Stone suffered a decisive loss and the last of the unbeaten zone winners was toppled in the first draw today of the B.C. Curling Association Bonspiel. The Speech from the Throne is government's statement of its achievements and aims. In their replies, members praised or blamed, according to their political stripe. But whether blessing Mr. Bennett's administration or damning it, they take time to report what's going on in the ballroom that sent each to the House.

Winter Wonderland

At Fernie in the Kootenays, we learned from Monday from youngish, bespectacled Liberal H. C. McKay, local effort has moved strongly to boost district economy by developing a new winter sports area.

"Just over a year ago," said Mr. McKay, "a private company was formed by Fernie residents, most of whom wouldn't know one end of a ski from the other. They called it Snow Valley Ski Development Ltd., and just two weeks ago I took part in the official opening of a $200,000 ski resort owned and operated by local people.

I mean lots of local people. The great bulk had to go to the bank to borrow the money to buy their shares. Others put equipment to work and took payment in shares. New jobs have been created, and the development will bring more motels and restaurants."

Local initiative has given Fernie "a new and flourishing secondary industry," but the project isn't complete.

"I should like to think that when the second stage of this development is going forward," Mr. McKay said, "we can look to the department of trade and industry for a portion of the funds required."

Food for thought here, and I hope our lower island members will chew on it. The skiers who have pioneered Green Mountain above the Nanaimo Lakes deserve a spot of government help too, beginning with a couple of miles of road to complete the link between their new lodge and the Islaaf Highway.

Pot Pourri

Monday was a catch-all day. Health Minister Martin, at the night sitting, had his say on the perils of smoking. NDP's red-tie-wearing Cedric Cox indulged in some clever but inconclusive shadow-boxing with the premier on the matter of his Cuba junket as Fidel Castro's guest.

Sacred member A. S. Mathew, Vancouver Centre, aligned himself with the Diet, against godless university professors, and in latter portion of his speech, David Barrett, NDP, Dewart, charmed our ears with a quote from the Dutch philosopher Spinoza.

"Minds, nevertheless," Mr. Barrett intoned, "are not conquered by arms, but by love and generosity."

I'm vague as to the reference, but approve this nod to the humanities. I rather approve young Mr. Barrett too, with his butch haircut and ingenuous smile. He spoke well and to the point on "education" in B.C., and while he entertains the usual fallacies about the modus operandi of the press, he was kinder to us than most.

Speaking of reportage, various members have suggested in a tentative sort of way that we should have a provincial Hansard. I'm not too sure this would work to their advantage. For one thing, with Hansard to hand like conscience made

Crisis at a Glance

- New Democratic Party caucus decides to support Social Credit non-confidence motion tonight, thus assuring defeat of Diefenbaker administration by combined opposition.
- Reports sweep Ottawa of revolt by group of cabinet ministers seeking Diefenbaker's resignation so that government can be saved.
- These reports suggest Finance Minister George Nowlan would become prime minister temporarily.
- Procedure would be that if Diefenbaker quits Social Credit would withdraw non-confidence motion and keep Tory government in power under new prime minister for a further period.
- As Commons session began, no action had been taken by Diefenbaker.

Demand to Quit

ada."

Almost 80 per cent believed a strong, permanent United Nations army would protect Canada's national freedom. Told Canada spends about one per cent of its defence budget on the U.N. army, 41 per cent said this was what Canada should spend. About one-third favored spending more.

Less than 14 per cent knew that Canada has fewer than 2,000 men serving with UN forces now. And less than six per cent had an approximate idea of the size of the UN budget, which is about $84,000,000.

Most guessed higher on both questions.
